#RISINGYOUTH

Hello Grantees,

This month we recognize Asian Heritage Month, a time for us to celebrate the countless contributions and achievements of Canadians of Asian heritage. It is also a reminder for all of us to come together to categorically denounce and combat anti-Asian racism and discrimination in all forms.

The theme for this year is, "Continuing a legacy of greatness", and we've asked Vivian of our alumni engagement team to create the art for this month's newsletter! This is what she has to say about her art piece:

"Growing up, Vietnamese culture was something kept in the home; it was not something that I felt comfortable expressing with friends nor something I saw in media frequently. It was only recently that I have been able to find emerging Vietnamese artists that celebrate my culture.

One such artist is Trung Le Nguyen whose graphic novel called "The Magic Fish" resonated deeply with me due to my similarities with the main character, a queer person who struggles to communicate with their single mom. In the end, they were able to connect with their mom by connecting Western and Vietnamese fairy tales and folklore. It was amazing to see the beautiful art that incorporated so many Vietnamese icons like the "ao dai," the traditional Vietnamese dress, and the "Hoa Sen," Vietnam's national flower.

This rich depiction of Vietnamese culture inspired me and made me want to incorporate the beauty of Vietnamese culture into my own art."

Sincerely,
Vivian Mai

Jordan - Chinese Canadian Healthcare Platform - ON

"The Chinese Canadian community faces ongoing cultural and language barriers when accessing relevant healthcare information and resources. Our team seeks to address this inequity by creating an online, easilyaccessible repository of Canadian healthcare information presented in both English and Chinese. We aim to educate healthcare providers and members of the public on illnesses especially prevalent amongst Chinese Canadians, including mental health, eating disorders, and elderly care. You can visit our website at:

"Our team, called 'Nemaste' hosted a Nepali New Year event called Naya Barsa. The event showcased diverse performances submitted by talented Nepalese individuals/groups from all over Canada celebrating the Nepali New Year."

Rupiksha - Nepali New Year - AB

Chaya - Project 2D Refuge - BC

"Project 2D Refuge is a workshop designed for refugee and immigrant youth, which brings up the issues of mental health within this community and the long-term cultural assimilation that is still prevalent in Canada. Both educational and artistic, its purpose is to help give tools to maintain their culture and mental health."

Recommendation of the Month

#RisingYouth alumni, Ivy Pan created a poetry collection entitled

Homecoming Poetry Collection

"Homecoming: Poetry Collection by Canadian BIPOC Youth" for her #RisingYouth project. Ivy is part of DearDearestCA, an Artist-run platform that promotes the voices of Asian-Canadians and provides content and resources to create a community of dealienation amongst Asian Immigrants. As part of her project, she provided five poetry workshops to Asian-Canadian youth (ages 14-28) with a final Expo and digital publication. Project participants were given writing prompts, learned how to attach visuals to poetry and were given a chance to practice spoken word. You can view the Homecoming poetry collection here: View the poetry collection!

ALUMNI CHAMPION - HALIUNA

Haliuna Zenteno did her #RisingYouth project in response to Asian discrimination during the pandemic. She wanted to bring this issue to light in her community and thought the best way to do that is through the universal love of food. She led a cooking class on traditional Mongolian dumplings, called buuz. Since she had plenty of experience teaching dumpling making to various volunteers at her local Tibetan monastery, she believed that the cooking class would be a great opportunity to share and educate on her culture.

She started off as an editor for the #RiZine - a youth-driven zine between 6 different Alumni, 3 writers, and 3 visual artists. You can check it out here to see the beautiful front cover that she has drawn as well as the other amazing work from different Alumni! She also wrote a blog on her project that will be coming out soon.

Haliuna's passion and creativity continue as an Alumni Champion through the plethora of opportunities she's done with us. If you're interested in engaging with #RisingYouth, similar to Haliuna, make sure to submit your Project Impact Report and reach out to the Alumni Team!
